

Dædalus

Journal of the American Academy of Arts & Sciences

Winter 2007

on nonviolence
& violence

|  |  |
|--|--|
| William H. McNeill                     | Violence & its historical limits 5         |
| Steven A. LeBlanc                      | Why warfare? 13                            |
| Jonathan Schell& Robert S. Boynton | People's power vs. nuclear power 22        |
| Mark Juergensmeyer                     | Gandhi vs. terrorism 30                    |
| Neil L. Whitehead                      | Violence & the cultural order 40           |
| Tzvetan Todorov                        | Avant-gardes & totalitarianism 51          |
| Adam Michnik                           | The Ultras of moral revolution 67          |
| Cindy D. Ness                          | The rise in female violence 84             |
| Mia Bloom                              | Female suicide bombers 94                  |
| Robert H. Mnookin                      | Negotiating conflict: Belgium & Israel 103 |
| James G. Blight& Janet M. Lang     | Robert McNamara: then & now 120            |

annals

|                               |                                  |
|-------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| David Jewitt& Jane X. Luu | Pluto, perception & politics 132 |
| Owen Gingerich                | Planetary perils in Prague 137   |

poetry

|               |                  |
|---------------|------------------|
| John Kinsella | Into the Sun 141 |
|---------------|------------------|

fiction

|               |                      |
|---------------|----------------------|
| Peggy Shinner | Life is Adequate 143 |
|---------------|----------------------|

notes

|                                       |  |
|---------------------------------------|--|
| Robert I. Rotberg                     | on improving governance 152            |
| Susan T. Fiske                        | on prejudice & the brain 156           |
| Daron Acemoglu& James A. Robinson | on the economic roots of democracy 160 |

