

One reason that states willingly cut higher education support is that, unlike other areas of the budget, colleges and universities have their own revenue source:

tuition.

From Public Research Universities: Changes in State Funding
(American Academy of Arts & Sciences, 2015)